MEETING ROOMS

MEETING ROOMS

The rise of single person meeting rooms

The way we work has changed dramatically in the past five years.

The shift to hybrid and remote working brought new challenges, particularly the need for quiet, private spaces for virtual meetings. As a result, single-person meeting rooms once a rarity are now a staple in modern office design.

Why Single-Person Meeting Rooms?

With platforms like Zoom and Microsoft Teams becoming essential for day-to-day business, companies are rethinking how their spaces support virtual collaboration. These small, acoustically treated rooms provide:

- Privacy for confidential discussions
- Better audio and video quality without background noise
- A focused environment for calls without distractions
- Efficient use of space, accommodating remote collaboration without tying up larger meeting rooms

Looking Back: How Did We Manage Before?

Before the widespread adoption of video calls, employees had to improvise—borrowing offices, huddling in corridors, or struggling with background noise in open-plan spaces. Now, purpose-built single-person meeting rooms have become a must-have for any workplace embracing hybrid work models.

How Is Your Office Adapting?

As businesses continue to evolve, so do their office spaces. At TJM Projects Ltd., we design and build workspaces that meet the demands of modern businesses, ensuring functionality, flexibility, and future-proofing.

If you're considering an office upgrade, get in touch to discuss how we can help optimise your workspace for the new way of working.

FOCUSPOD

The FocusPod brings calm, clarity and privacy to busy spaces

Whether it's video calls, private conversations, or focused work, the modular FocusPod creates a dedicated space for better communication wherever you need it

Modular, flexible and future-friendly, it's designed to install easily in offices, co-working hubs, or even at home without the need for major disruption.

With integrated ventilation, lighting, and plug-and-play power, it's everything you need to step away from the noise and get things done.
